How To Manifest Your Goals

Identify Your Goals

To achieve your ultimate goal in life you must first be able to visualize and identify what exactly it is you desire. What would really make you a happy or content person? Do you desire financial prosperity, a closer relationship with someone you love, better health and tranquility or spiritual enlightenment? To understand and use the power from within, one must first list in detail those visions and goals that would manifest his or her ultimate fulfillment. Obvious as it seems, your initial step should be to make a written list of these visions and goals.

Identify The Obstacles

Secondly, you must identify any obstacle that may stand in the way of you achieving the utmost in a rewarding and joyous life. Making a written list, again, of any barriers or opposition that might realistically limit you from reaching that financial attainment, spiritual enlightenment, or self-development goal, will elucidate the path to the choices for your future. Your obstacle may be a lack of knowledge, goal, a dead-end job, or perhaps motivation and the spirit to succeed.

Set A New Course

Let us now set out a new course of action that will make a permanent change in our mind set and habits, freeing us to achieve ultimate fulfillment. Having identified a set of definite goals and the precise obstacles which have prevented us from achieving them, we can redirect our lives by learning how to use the unlimited resources of our subconscious mind.

The conscious and subconscious mind have often been compared to a computer or bio-computer. To better understand the process of overcoming our pre-programmed obstacles, let us examine the function of this powerful bio-computer. First of all, approximately 12% of the brain is employed in the functions of the conscious mind, operating at the higher Beta brain wave frequencies. The conscious mind acts as a communication center, directing all deliberate operations of the body as it calculates, it registers fear, pain and happiness. It is the conscious mind that is constantly setting and achieving goals on a daily and even hourly basis.

The subconscious mind is involved with the functioning of approximately 88% of the brain. Operation in the slower Alpha, Theta and Delta brain waves, the subconscious acts as our auto pilot, the data storage-retrieval system, our memory bank. It controls our motor functions and emotions and stores a lifetime of experiences in the form of ideas, images, visions, feelings and general knowledge. It is the sum of all our influences, experiences, whether good or otherwise, which add up to what we are, how we see ourselves and how we function. Unfortunately for most of us, the majority of information stored in our subconscious mind is negative. Researchers estimate that the average child in America receives twenty negative messages from his or her parents for each positive, reassuring one. Some people just cannot meet their goals because they have no information in their subconscious giving an indication that these goals are possible. Our subconscious holds our visions, or mental pictures of us in every situation we can think of and it will do whatever necessary to keep us in line with these pictures, or visions. Thus it is possible to change our behavior by changing these underlying mental pictures. While you cannot delete information from the subconscious, you can overpower the negative by reprogramming with positive information. By this process an old mental picture is replaced by a new positive one and we behave accordingly, overcoming our past obstacles.

A very effective method of replacing our mental pictures with new ones is by means of subliminal reprogramming. Subliminal, subconscious level, audio self improvement tapes, CD's and mp3 programs at www.brightimages.com have proven to be incredible powerful tools for removing self-imposed limitations that keep us from reaching our potential in any area of life that calls for attitude, confidence and performance and they can bring us in touch with our enlightened self. Much progress of recent years, both in our understanding of how our subconscious recording computer operates and the utilization of advanced digital recording technology to match our bio-computer equipment, makes us realize the awesome power of our highly complex bio-computer.

D., California State University, the STI. This credibility assures that each program developed for use is 100% positive, safe and effective when used as prescribed. Experts tell us that subliminal messages cannot be turned to harmful uses, especially behavior modification, without a subject's conscious consent, (this is thought to be the reason the CIA stopped their research years ago in this area). Researchers have shown that the human mind can process 100 million bits of information every second, through our five senses.
